The lowpass filter output shows strong low-frequency components with high frequencies attenuated above 4 kHz. The highpass filter shows the opposite, with energy concentrated above 4 kHz and suppression below that point. The bandpass filter confines the signal to a narrow range around 4 kHz, attenuating both lower and higher frequencies.